Missions

- Initiated a “Dementia Care Consultation Clinic.”
- Adopt a client-centered, multi-disciplinary approach to dementia care, teaching, and research, e.g. case conference, consultation clinic.
- Provide educational materials and classes to persons with dementia, caregivers, health professionals, and communities in greater Tainan areas.
- Provide assistance to families of persons with dementia and to long-term care institutions about social resources and referral.

A holistic, client-centered approach to dementia care

ADRC Activities

Alzheimer's Disease Research Center (ADRC) was established in February 16, 2011. ADRC believes in making dementia-related information accessible to the public. We integrate hospital-based and community-based resources to promote dementia awareness by organizing and/or participating in multiple public events about dementia care. In addition, we participate in international activities, such as international conferences and reciprocal international visits.

- Hold monthly multi-disciplinary case conferences to improve the knowledge and skills of our team,
- Work with local and national dementia associations to promote dementia care,
- Organize regular educational classes and forums for family and professional caregivers in both urban and rural Tainan,
- Put together educational brochures, bi-monthly magazines, and videos for the public, and
- Maintain a website that provides regular updates on dementia-related information and activities

Multi-disciplinary Case conferences

Case conferences

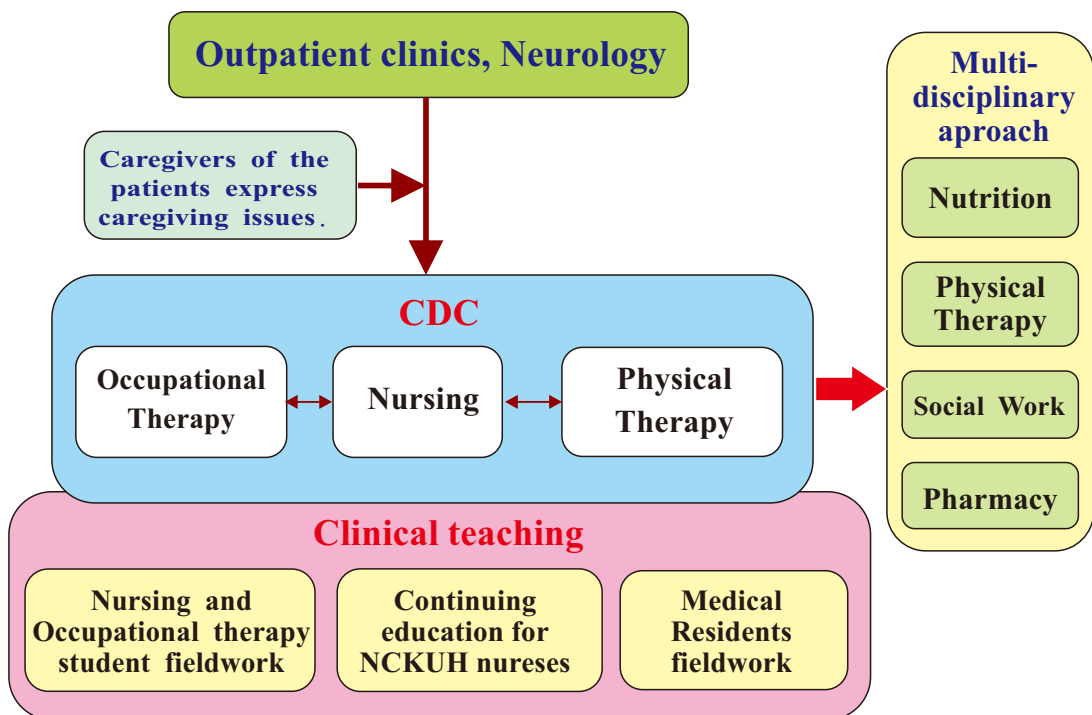

Workshops for NCKUH nurses on dementia care

Clinic for Dementia Care

Clinic for Dementia Care provides consultation and education for both persons with dementia and their families. The promotion of care quality and the welfare of family caregivers are the primary issues discussed in the sessions. We often encounter complicated and difficult care situations, some of which are discussed in case conferences for both clinical and educational purposes.
